The following has been issued by the Secretary of the Treasury : TREASURY DEPARTMENT, October 15.

The Department is prepared to issue 5-20 bonds of 1867 in exchange for 7 3-10 notes, interest to be charged on the bonds and allowed on the notes up to the time of conversion: Notes to be forwarded to the Assistant Treasurer at New York or to the Department here, at the risk and expense of the holders. The bonds to be returned at the risk and expense of the Department. HUGH McCULLOCH, railroads, General Grant expressed himself to the effect that they have been managed with great energy, and that the inability to pay the indebted ness to the Government arises from causes bewond the control of managers. He favors an extension of time in all cases. The Herald contains the following analysis of the Ohio elections: At the election of Congressmen in Ohio last year the Republicans carried sixteen out of the nineteen districts in the State. The Demo-13th Districts; the latter by a majority of 271, which Columbus Delano, the defeated candidate, is now contesting. At the election on the 8th instant the Democrats carried twelve out of the nineteen dis-Democrate carried twelve out of the nineteen dis-tricts, and came within 190 of carrying two or three others. In the two districts carried by them last base their purchases on that estimate at low prices. Now the question is, at the prices the arto 6002 in the 12th district, while in the 18th, which is being contested, the Democratic majority in-cut down immensely. In the seventh district, which gave Samuel Shellaberger 2171 majority last year, the Radicals escaped with a bare 95 majority at the recent election; while in the eighth district the majority was reduced from 1852 to 1862. In the second district the Radical candidate was defeated by nearly 1000 votes. General Carey, his successful opponent, although person ally in favor of negro suffrage, is opposed to forcing it upon any State, and pledged himself to the democracy to oppose any measures looking to passage of the bill by Congress enfranchis ing the blacks either in the North or South; he may, therefore, be regarded as an opponent of the Congressional policy of reconstruction. The most significant feature about these districts is the revolution in the tenth, which district is represented by J. M. Ashby, member of Congress, who brought in articles of impeachment against the President. As will be seen, the Republican loss is 2041, giving the Democrats a majority of

The following letter, taken from the New York Herald, is certainly charming. Those who remember that there were once spoons, planos and cotton in New Orleans, will appreciate the high morality of B. F. Butler:

"Lowell, Mass., September 27, 1867.

My Dear Sir,—I am much gratified to find that my views meet the approbation of Mr.—— and of yourself. They are the matured opinion of close observation of the wants of the country. That they should accord with the principles of my former Democratic associates is not remarkable, as they are Democratic as was democracy before it became conservatism under the manipulations of Fillmore, George T. Curtis. Winthrop, Josiah Randall, and persons of their opinions, who never drew a Democratic breath. The democracy must look to the Radical and Republican party for the resuscitation of its true principles as applied to men as men. With us all true Democrats will ultimately be found who believe in equality of right, equality of power, and equality of taxation under the Government, to every man, who by the Constitution has the high position of American citizen. My hopes or expectations of political preferment have nothing to do with my political views. I must go forward speaking the truth in politics as in other matters, and the more unpopular—if I find them just and true—the more smelly will I declare them. This is not the kind of saturf Presidents have been made of, and it is more than doubtful whether thay will ever be mide of sterner. will I declare them. This is not the kind of stuff Presidents have been made of, and it is more than doubtful whether they will ever be made of sterner stuff. Have I not answered your question (whether I should make a good candidate for the Presidency)? I will not say with Clay, that "I lived rather be right than be I resident," because he was wrong and not President besides; but I will say that I would not sacrifice my independence of thought and action to be President ten times over sad that is not saying much, seeing what sort of n.m we have had, and may possibly have, to fill that now degraded place.

BENJ. F. BUTLER."

To the Editor of the Charleston Daily News:
The calculation of two million five hundred thousand bales of cotton, as made for this crop, which we consider as present rates? My own stances less than an advance in price; and so much as is hald over will be so much less planted next eason; for at the present price in depreciated noney at a discount of forty-five per cent., and with the unjust tax, it will not net the planter nine cents. It cannot be made at that in this State, nor day believe in any other, under the present system of labor, as the planters next year will have to discharge most of their hands.

With two small banks, whose capitals are about four to five hundred thousand dollars, and the rate of exchange on New York one and a half per cent. for fifteen days, or thirty-six per cent, per annum, the planters will have to quit or loss what little they have left. They have no resource un-less foreign capital will aid them by an advance on shipments, which, at the present low prices, must pe safe, and I then confidently look for a reaction nd an advance in prices.

The factors have done all they could to assist the planter, and it is the duty of the latter to send forward their cotton and relieve them, for the times are hard, and they now require all their SUBSCRIBER.

The Springfield Republican tells its own party some plain truths when it says:

"There are no excuses or paliations to be offered. The Republicans of Ohio have declared that they do not believe in equal suffrage as a right. They are willing to aid in forcing it from the South, an order to secure loyal recommendor and Republican ascendancy in that section but they deny it to their own relored citizens, because they feel strong enough without their votes. This is the whole case, and there are no means of warding off the derision and contempt it procees."

Chase became Secretary np. is unparalleled for the number and amount of rands committed. The sum lost by the Government and extorted from the people is stupendome; and if the fact erry become known the people will be flatted at the same lost the control of corruption and robbery, and at the reckless mismanagement of the Treasury. When the war closed the Confederate Government owned a bundred thousand bales or their proceeds ever came to the Mississippi, which became, of course, the property of the United States Government; yet not sen thousand bales or their proceeds ever came to the Government. "What did that army of agents of Mr. Chase and Mr. McCulloch do with the cotton—where are the proceeds of Estates this, and funded thousand bales belonging to private individuals were seized by Treasury agents. What has become of the proceeds, amounting to some eighty or a hundred millions of dollars? But even this is only a part of the frauds on Government and people through the wreiched misiasnagement of the Treasury September 1 and the course as Secuetary of the Treasury, asying that to make fortunes for his friends and supporters, and to create a vast money power is the most monstrous political machine eyer established in any country. The revenue frauds are justly to be charged to Chase, McCulloch; and their friends, who created the revenue system, and to the swarms of rascally political pitche holders, the appointers it incomprehensible why Mr. McCulloch is permitted to Astain his position, for no other country, ever less so much in so short a time from incompetency in its finance minister, and none was ever threatened with greater financial disasters from such a cause.

THE PRESIDENT AND HIS CABINET—MORE URGENT APPEALS FOR CONGRESS—DEMANDS OF THE DEMOCRATS—GENERALS SICKLES'S COURT OF INQUIRY DENIED—THE TREASURY NOTE COUNTERFEITS.

WASHINGTON, October 13.—Already we have had a visitation of the advocates of Cabinet reorganization, incited by the successes of the Democrats in last Tuesday's elections. Intelligence of the coming of others from New York and elsewhere has reached this city, and if the reports can be relied upon the President, if he still give car to all who come, is to be engrossed with this disturbing subject for the next two weeks or more. Three Democrats of influence and power in their party have had separate interviews with Mr. Johnson on the subject within the past twenty-four hours.
They say that the President must place his administration in more direct accord with the Democrats, who are his only friends that the Democratic party has sustained him s' against the extreme Radicals, and by its late victories effectually stayed the hands of those who threatened impeachment and instant deposition of the Executive; that it would inspire confidence among his friends if Mr. Johnson should infuse warmer blood into the Cabinet, and to that end they suggest an entire change, or at least that three or four of the present members should be supplanted.

The fact that the President hears these propositions is taken generally as indicating a determination on his part to adopt them, and it is telegraphed hence accordingly.

As yet there is no positive assurance of a disposition on the part of Mr. Johnson to bring new men into his councils, except in the War Department, as heretofore stated, though it is within the range of probability that, yielding to the pressure, some two or three members may be retired within a month. The Republicans here expect that the Cabinet will be harmonized in support of the threatened Presidential coup d'etat, and they seriously say that the aspect of affairs is fraught with great danger.

They fear that Congress may convene in bold and defined t riously say that the aspect of afairs is fraught with great danger.

They fear that Congress may convene in bold and defiant spirit, and adhere to the declared policy of extreme men of impeachment, and snapension of the President during trial; and since the elections more than ever they believe Mr. Johnson will sesist with force, if nocessary, to maintain his constitutional right to hold the office until a judgment after trial.

Others, however, argue that the effect of the elections has been to settle these grave questions, and that impeachment will find fewer advocates at the next session than were counted in the last.

The bankers and brokers have been notified by the Treasury Department of the peculiar features of the counterfeit seven-thirties. So far eighty thousand dollars of the counterfeits have been received at the Treasury Department for conversion. These notes will be returned to the parties who sent them, and the Government will lose nothing on account of the spurious issues.

"Repudiation vs. Honesty."

I From the Unionville (S. C.) Times.

Mr. Editor: A writer over the signature of "Randolph," in the Times of the 20th ult., has ventilated some very startling opinions upon the alove subject. The writer has been particularly unfortunate in the selection of his "norme deplume." That remarkable man, Mr. Randolph, once startled the House by exclaiming, "Mr. Speaker, I have discovered the philosopher's stone—it is, pay as you go." A very large proportion of those worthy geutlemen, "honest debtors," which have been robbed of their hard earnings, swindled by Confederate bonds and all that, who are now elamoring for repudiation, belong to that class who never would pay a debt as long as they could stave it off, and borrowed of Shylocks most beseethingly, thanking them for the accommodation, and wowing that it saved them from ruin. They held on to their property to the last, and would not even sell or pay their debts when they could have done it with Confederate money.

There are many, doubtless, very much to be pitied; but I put the question to every candid man to look around him and answer how many of the "pay-as-you-go" people are clamoring for repudiation."

saying hard words. They don't feel satisfied with their own position, and are trying to work off the steam. The whole drift of Randolph's advice is to inaugurate general dishonesty. "Old things are done away with, all things have become now. It will not be right to open up the dead law of the past." Never was there a more Radical, ultra agrarian sentence penned. It is true he tells you "that all honest men will pay according to ability;" but he says moreover with a sneer, "Talk about honor when the whole people and Government are corrupt and demoralized."

Randolph seems to have adopted honest Jack Fallstaff's notion of honor. Can honor set a leg? No. Or an arm? No. Or take away the grief of a wound? No. Honor hath no skill in surgery, then? No. What is honor? A word. What is in that word, honor? Air—a trim reckoning! Who hath it? He that died o' Wednesday, Doth he feel tt? No. Doth he hear it? No. Is it insensitie then? Yes, to the dead. But will it not live with the living? No. Why? Detraction will not suffer it."

not suffer it."

Right and wrong are not metaphysical subtleties—most persons have a little internal monitor which is apt to be suggestive.

It is the duty of every good citizen, every lover of order, every man of intelligence, to use his influence against the propagandism of all heresies that tend to the subvenion of all the old fashioned notions of honesty and tail the old fashioned notions of honesty and the least between man and man. Whenever a people begin to parley and chaffer over principle, their liberties are gone, and they may as well inscribe upon their banner Robin Hood's maxim,

"The good old rule sufficient me, the simple plan. That he shall take who has the power, and keep who can."

The Rebellion in China.—Our cable dispatches state that the rebels are gaining ground in China and are now seriously threatening Pekin. This Chinese rebellion has seen many phases of defeat and success since it was first opened, in 1850. Its first great leader held his ground for a few years and then gave place to a schoolmaster, who proclaimed himself the second Son of God. His rare talents enabled him to assume and retain command of the insurgents. From the fact that nearly all the adventurous for express including missionaries, have joined the rebel standard; it is some indication that that is the party of progress, although it has not yet been fully determined which side is the most inclined to shake of the exclusiveness which has herefolder and, out the Chinase from the government had completely overcome the rebellion; but it again made serious front. The treaty which ceded the Chinase territory on the left bank of the Amoor to Russis, lit was runored, bound the Russians to assist China in overcoming the probels; but up to this time no aid has been rendered.

rations for War in Both Countries.

[From the London Times, September 27.1]

We have already, in a previous article, pointed ed out the main causes of the irritation produced by the publication of M. Bismarch's circular in France. We know not to what extent we may be reassured as to its effects by the apparently softened mood of public opinion in that country. The warlike preparations on both sides of the Rhine are certainly proceeding on the largest scale; but even those who assign the shortest possible period to the outbreak of hastilities are now willing to allow us breathing time till next Spring. Between this and April or May, 1863, there are at least six months, a lapse of time under present circumstances not to be fathomed by human eve. He must be a bold man who would foretell what may happen in the interval. Were France and Prussia to continue to strain every nerve for the coming struggle, as they have visibly been doing ever since Sadowa, next Spring would find them both in such a state of exhaustion as to allow them but little scope for sustained exertion. Even in this mad, ruimous race, however, it would be found that Prussia not only had the start originally, but would also be able to keep ahead of her adversary by the superiority both of her military and of her financial organization. Her breechloaders are all ready and her treasury is till, while in France bread is dear and the new army bill is not popular. Such consideration would, of course, weigh less than nothing if the honor of France were at stake. There are spirit and devotion enough in the French people to counterbalance all material advantages. But the fact is, the very honor of France forbids her engaging in a context of this nature. The war, she must feel convinced, would not be waged against Prussis, but against Germany; not against the ambition of a monarch or a statesman, but against the aspirations of a people. France, the champion of a nictoral production of a people when she admits only of the possibility of a rival. That United G

General Sheridan had two months leave of absence granted him when called here by General Grant. Grant.

General Sickles's court of inquiry will not be granted. It is argued that he has already had his hearing in the mode selected by himself, by the publication of his correspondence with General Grant, and his own expose of facts as he understand the selected the selected

He is a poor sailor who will not reef his sails, examine the yards, pumps and long boat when he sees a storm coming down upon him. No man in the late stringgle could shut his eyes to the dangers impending; and he has no one to blame but himself, if he did not prepare himself far the west. It is all twaddle, bosh and fustian to try to saddle one's own shortcomings upon Shylocks, banks, Confederate bonds and the lawyers.

It is very hard to run away from one's self. Conscience is a very froublesome companion when not quiet, and I don't wonder that gentlemen who talk of repudiation always getting out of temper and saying hard words. They don't feel satisfied with their own position, and are trying to work off the

The last place to look for the milk of human kindness is in the pale of civilization.

A man who got drunk at an election said it was owing to his efforts to "put down party spirits."

An editor compliments a brother time: "Mr. Brown is a clear thinker, a resdy and vigorous legit, and a first rate fellow to boot."

"Look well, before you leap," is very good advice in its way; but how can sickly looking people follow it?"
